Do you know how you can make transporting livestock safer?

- Properly prepare livestock for transport including having time to settle after mustering and curfew off food and water.
- Provide accurate information about the condition, mass, and number of livestock for transport.
- Maintain loading ramps and forcing yards.
- Make sure farm entry is clearly marked and there is enough room for heavy vehicles to enter and turn around safely.
- Do not pressure drivers to carry livestock that are not fit for transport or carrying would result in the vehicle's limits being exceeded.
- Provide stock agents and/or transporters notice ahead of bookings.
