1.0 Introduction

Grain Trade Australia (GTA) welcomes the opportunity to provide a Submission to the National Heavy Vehicle Regulator's (NHVR) Grain Harvest Management Schemes Review.

GTA is firmly of the belief an effective and efficient supply chain is critical to maintaining and growing productivity and profitability in the agricultural industry and within the grain sector. GTA is committed to assisting and providing input to NHVR to achieve the stated objectives of this review.

2.0 Grain Trade Australia's Role

GTA is the focal point for the commercial grain industry within Australia. It facilitates trade and works to provide an efficient, equitable and open trading environment by providing leadership, advocacy and commercial services to the Australian grain value chain. GTA is non-political, industry driven with a primary focus to ensure the efficient facilitation of commercial activities across the grain supply chain including a strong focus on the logistics of grain through transport storage and ports.

GTA's has over 280 organisations as members ranging from regional family businesses to large national and international trading, storage and handling companies, grain marketers, consumers and processors. The vast majority of grain contracts executed in Australia refer to GTA grain trading standards, standard-form grain contracts and GTA Trade Rules. Most of Australia's grain storage and freight movements are made by GTA members. Key national and state producer representative groups are also GTA Members. A full list of GTA Members is attached to this Submission.

3.0 Grain Industry Sector

The Australian grain sector has been a consistent provider of productivity increases to the Australian economy. Depending on the season the Australian grain industry is Australia's number one or two agricultural export industry. In 2018/19 ABARES estimates the Australian grain industry value to be around $A12.9 1 billion (at the farm gate). This is 6% below the 5-year average of $A13.8 billion with 60% of production exported in a normal season the industry is a major driver of export revenue. Exports in 2018/19 are estimated by ABARES at $A7.9 2 billion (FOB) and approximately 18.7 million metric tonnes (mmt). This has been severely impacted by the drought being 29 % below the 5-year average. The grain industry, and its ancillary suppliers and service providers, are a substantial employer of people from farm gate through to port.

Domestic demand for all crops is estimated at 15.5mmt in 2018/19. The domestic market continues to be the largest consumptive home for Australian grain, and its growth is expected to continue with consumption forecast to reach 16mmt in 2019/20.

The grain industry supply chain is geographically diverse and is spread across 18 ports in the 5 major producing states of the nation.

² ABARES (FOB value), July 2019

Producing on average 45mmt tonnes from approximately 21,000 farms production units³ the grain industry has an inordinately heavy reliance on the nation's road and rail networks including rural branch lines and the many non-sealed farm access and rural roads.

Historically, the Australian grain supply chain operated under a simple aggregation system with farmers delivering their produce approximately 10-30kms at harvest time to local collection points from where the grain would, over time be delivered to domestic and export destinations. This model has now changed with the industry increasingly moving to a disaggregated market with:

- Increased use of on-farm storage.
- Rationalisation of bulk handler receival sites and service arrangements.
- Privatisation of the above rail operating companies and their rolling stock assets and some of the below rail track networks. Removal of government ownership and in some states Community Service Obligations (CSOs) for rail leading to a transport modal shift from rail to road.
- Increased use of containers for export tonnage due to favourable sea transport back freight opportunities combined with international markets preferences in delivery and order size.
- Increased commodity trading activity with multiple aggregators for most sales contracts and a dramatic increase in supply chain participants resulting in competing demand for common use infrastructure.

The increased complexity in the grain supply chain has created challenges and constraints in peak periods. This evolving model and its complexity need to be understood and factored into any reform agenda such as this Review.

4.0 Grain Industry Framework and Transport

The Australian grain industry operates under a self-regulatory industry framework enabled by GTA's products and services. Industry self-regulation is unique to Australia and is well-regarded amongst other grain trading nations. This self-regulatory framework is recognised by the Australian Government and by governments in our destination markets as an important part of the Australian grain industry.

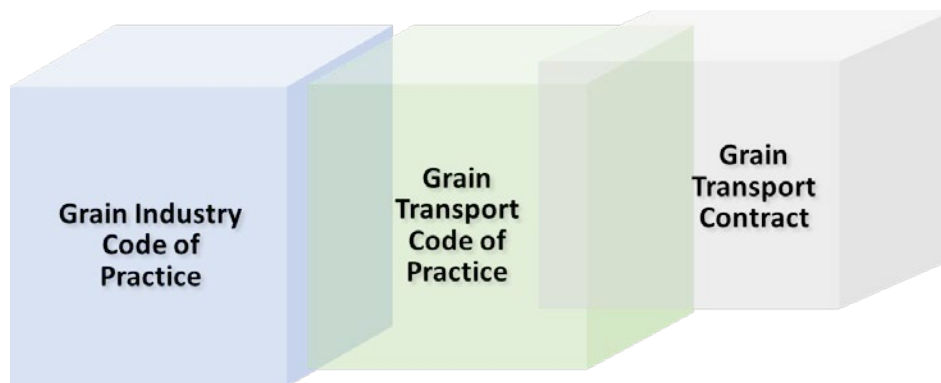

The glue that binds the self-regulatory framework together is the Australian Grains Industry Code of Practice \(Code\), managed by GTA. The Code plays an important role in the facilitation of trade and creates value by ensuring confidence in the Australian value chain. Australia remains the only major exporting country with an industry managed and driven Code of Practice.

Supplementary to the Code is the GTA Grain Transport Code of Practice \(Transport Code\). The Transport Code has been developed as an important tool to assist participants transport grain to their designated markets quickly, safely and within the relevant laws. It is referenced as a Technical Guideline Document in the Code and has been developed to provide more detailed information to industry on transport safety.

The Transport Code was developed using the NHVR Registered Master Industry (Transport) Code of Practice as a guide and reference document and is to assist industry participants in the management of statutory responsibilities and compliance with Applicable Laws, in particular road transport chain of responsibilities in relation to fatigue and mass management and other parameters.

³ Grain Growers Limited – State of the Australian Grain Industry 2016

Supporting the GTA Transport Code is the GTA Grain Transport Contract. This contract is provided to industry to enshrine commercial arrangements between the consignor and consignee. Use of the Transport Code can be made binding between agreeable parties using this GTA Grain Transport Contract.

5.0 NHVR HMMS Review - Objectives

The NHVR Issues Paper list the Review purpose and objectives as:

Purpose:

- Develop a concessional mass management scheme to assist participants that may unintentionally over-load grain into trucks when weighing technology is not available.

Objectives:

- Ensure compliance with statutory vehicle mass limits as prescribed in the HVNL
- Provide a level of support to assist with difficulties associated with grain transportation
- Ensure the safe transportation of grain
- Manage risks to road infrastructure and public safety

Whilst, GTA consider the stated purpose and the objectives are sufficient for this Review, GTA would also recommend NHVR consider the scope of this Review. Given the grain industry model now relies on access to grain stored in farm storage (as part of its normal post-harvest supply chain) this Review should be broader than a harvest centric mass management system. This is the approach taken in South Australia with its mass loading management concession.

Similarly, the NHVR should potentially consider as part of this review process other agricultural products that also leave farms in unweighed road transport.

6.0 NHVR Review – Structure

The NHVR Issues Paper raises several questions and provides some potential structures, and the process to support these structures.

GTA is not in a position to be able to comment on which structure is preferable as this requires a high level of analysis, discussion and engagement with industry.

This Review is complex, and it is important to understand the existing HMMS evolved within each state to address the objectives and concerns of industry over several years and numerous iterations. NHVR should seek to understand each different HMMS system and to isolate the better components for consideration as part of a potential national HMMS and set of national standards.

The concept of harmonising these schemes appears sound and GTA supports the removal of inconsistent approaches to legislation and consider this supportive of the current National Transport Regulatory Reform inquiry. However, given these schemes were developed at the grass roots level GTA recommends NHVR should:

- Take into consideration the complexities associated with the grain supply chain.
- Consider the historical reasons for the introduction of each HMMS and the changes that have been introduced to the different schemes over time.
- Recognize the many varied participant groups involved in HMMS and seek to engage with these groups and industry through workshops and forums.

Engaging with industry through forums and workshops is highly recommended given the history and parochial support for each scheme. Change to any of one of the three proposed HMMS structures must be well understood and opportunities to understanding and debate change is critical.

6.0 Conclusion

GTA welcome the opportunity to provide input into the NHVR HMMS Review and see this aligned to the current National Transport Regulatory Reform inquiry. Being involved and staying abreast of any outcome is an important step in keeping GTA's Transport Code updated so it remains a valid industry resource. GTA is committed to support the Review process and asked to be kept informed of further opportunities to assist and be involved.
